The Black abyss in the Sky surrounded the Gems of the milyway in a nook that was known as King's Crown.

Inside were the gems of the Earths sky and waters.

The Giants were Blue, Green, Yellow, Red, White, Clear, and Many other Colors.

The Earth was commanded by the Authority the Creator weilded through this Cluster.

Through the Temple on Earth time passed and Lings were proclaimed to inherit the names of the Stars and the wealth it provided on the face of the earth.

The Fires burned and promised of a new story to be written by the animals and humans below and above the level of King's crown.

Suspended by this fire and the will of Creator the song hummed in the day and night.

Down on the planet they clalled earth it wasn't usual to miss all this activity.

God was with the inhabitants of Earth and the other spheres in the solar system.

The grey's had proved this.

The greys were humanoid beings that had evolved in a time that was much too cold for humans and under the sphere of a frozen earth from oysters.

A new age in the cycle of earth was beggining.

The advances men had made were almost censored now completely by the government.

It was time to put away modern devices and focus on the genetics of humans and tghe advances in Sorcery and Breeding with Alien races.

It was dramatic.

although the evidence was everywhere.

Using this technology the greys had assembled from the gaseous and Suspensiopn gravity that was naural to their shpere.

Travel was simple to interpret mathematically.

It was now time to fcus on a new type of advance other than greed and construction.

It was time to focus on interstellar travel and how to breed humans on another planet.

Jonathan was at home doing the normal routine of chores and daily assignments.

When he noticed a shadow and unusual radio signals.

It was like static and the eerie shape of a humanoid not from anywhere he'd ever seen from the earth seemed to be making contact.

"What the heck is that?" I said to myself aloud.

I decided to follow the alien like image outside and I looked around to see if any one was pointing lasers and making a joke.

I looked up and I saw a reflective sphere in the sky.

The communication was telepathic - from the disk.

I already knew what they intended!

I was in my desk at my study reading up on architecture, law and medicine when my day was interrupted by a transmission that was now coming in through the television and the radios. Suddenly a very strong gust of wind blew across the landscape, darkening the skies, and sending debris flying everywhere.

It was strange I did, was used to omitting these sudden changes when I could spawn the idea that something else was influencing the world around me. I looked at my cat, curious about this small animal who had just suddenly appeared, was so delicately constructed even more than I was myself, a simple human.

I was amused with this idea of messages and the actual presence of an unknown visitor in my household, although I was not surprised when the night consumed the fiery morning and afternoon when I looked up and I saw I could see glimmering in the sky, green, orange, yellow, red, purple, white, and black stones buzzing with fire and electricity, sending heat from my hair to my forehead and inspiring me to work harder.

I thought to myself, if my pastor was involved in the daily functions of my life, in the interest of the community, how uncommon would it be for a traveler to visit me while I was studying the nature of a person, the nature of sacrifice, radioisotopes and life processes, the structures and functions of the body at another could simply fly across the sky and confer any doubts that I could have as being real and relevant to the processes that could become obstacles in my mind.

Although I could dismiss what I cannot prove, what my eyes had seen was more, was the most strong evidence that I had, and this did please me, that I could continue my studies.

The days were dull in hot, and the darkness of the blue in the sky was reflected away. It was a dull blue color, and work was done in the area to reduce the bacteria and raise the platform of the location is to an object that could define a gain in the sacrifice of cattle.

It was a challenge for Matt to construct this platform. It was a challenge to define hygienic processes, and the continuation of this work was exhausting. Could this be the reason for the visitors or was it just a reminder that we were being closely watched by the administration that conceived this project, a UFO with a crazy idea?

I became fascinated with my cat in its daily life, the way it was oriented to influence the way your nature of my person, person. And I spent many nights thinking and thinking, what if this cat was from Uranus?

If this cat was from Uranus, and said, what if it knew? What if we both agreed that the wealth in the king's crown in the sky was a blessing, was a baptism? Give it to the most faithful in God's earthly kingdom. Wouldn't it be amazing if we shared the same space? Wouldn't it be awesome to further our relationship, to become accustomed to each other's company and to venture out and have more than a simple house friendship that we could extend and it's the darkness of the sky E see to the next dimension, formation of the earth.

The transfers of the planets was awesome. This cat was my friend, and we were going to discover these things only after the usual routine. Coffee, vitamins, shower and exercise, research and reading the books that made life function.

All the nonsensical garbage was simply entertaining chain. The days were hot and long, although I was always chain with noting the changes and modifications that were made quietly, quickly, and precisely.
